With all the bad press about tanning, here are a few Tanning Facts:

- In order to get enough Vitamin D a day, you either need to be outside in the sunshine where your shadow is longer than you are for at least 20 minutes 3 times a week or you need one of the following: 20 minutes 3 times a week in a tanning bed and/or 5,000 iu's (international units) of Vitamin D
- The people that are bad mouthing tanning whether indoor or outdoors have a financial stake ($35 billion a year) in the SPF industry. The SPF's are chemical sunscreen, many of which they tell you not to put on babies. Why, because the chemicals break down in the baby's system, now what are they doing to you?
- If we just take what God gave us, quit contaminating and messing with; - Sun - Food - Water - Air and not abuse them.....we would all be a lot better off
- Melanoma primarily impacts 2 parts of the general population; people with type I skin (those that burn and don't tan) the remaining portion of people that get melanoma get it on areas of the body that are typically aren't exposed to the sun. The recent studies touting the dangers of tanning did not exclude people with Type I skin. When excluded the incidents of cancer was no greater than previous studies showed to be the norm for tanners and non-tanners alike.
